

Thank You

Dearest Tanuj,

I just wanted to write to you - not to ask anything, not to solve anything - just to say what sits quietly in my heart.

Lately life has been heavy and busy, and I know your mind is carrying a lot. I want you to know that I love you for who you are - not for what you decide, not for what you promise, not for how perfectly things work out - but for you.

You are my warmest hugs.

My safest place to rest my head.

The face I think of when I think of "home".

The other day, even with so many people around, I felt completely safe with you. Lying close to you, talking softly, laughing, dreaming - those moments felt natural, calm, and real. That's something I'll always hold close.

I love the way you try.

I love the way you care deeply.

I love how you show up even when you're tired, busy, or unsure.

I love how you reassure me, encourage me, and believe in me.

I love how peaceful my body feels with you.

I want to tell you something honestly.

Yes - I'm scared to lose you. That fear is real, and I won't pretend it isn't. But I'm stronger than you think. So when you think about this decision, please don't think from the place of not wanting to hurt me. I don't want you to protect me by carrying guilt or sacrificing yourself.

I also don't want you to hurt yourself or your family. None of us deserve a life built on guilt or pain. So please think beyond me - think about what you can live with peacefully, what feels right in your heart and what kind of life allows you to breathe freely.

Please don't ever think you've hurt me by loving me. Nothing we shared came from pressure or force it came from trust, comfort, and choice. I don't regret any of it. Not even for a second.

I also want to say sorry if I ever made you feel guilty on your busy days by asking to meet. I understand your schedule better now and I don't want you to carry that guilt anymore. You don't have to. I'll always be patient with you.

Whatever the future holds, one thing is constant: I'm proud of you. I want you healthy, peaceful, smiling, and happy - always. With me, or wherever life takes you.

And if your heart ever says yes - I would be the happiest person to slowly build all the little dreams we've spoken about, in our own time, in our own way. But that happiness comes from choice, not expectation - and I respect wherever your heart truly arrives.

I wrote this simply because I love you so much with no conditions.

Love you bae ❤

Yours lovingly,
Your Bee 🐝

